

Fascinating parrots from all over the world

von Claudia Kleemann

A wonder in what sizes and colours nature presents parrots.

Parrots have always fascinated people, on the one hand because of their colorfulness and on the other hand because of their intelligence. They live in different species around the world. Unfortunately, nowadays many species are threatened with extinction. Some zoos try through breeding programs to reintroduce the species back into their native habitat. I hope you will enjoy the photos of the different parrots

